

TERMS OF USE

1. Information

This website is operated and owned by Bory Legal. By accessing this website, you agree to these Terms of Use.

The content of this website is provided for general information purposes only and shall not be construed as legal advice on any specific facts or circumstances. Although we make reasonable efforts to keep all information accurate and up-to-date, we do not assume any responsibility or liability for its accuracy, completeness or timeliness.

Neither the transmission of information from this website nor the retrieval of such information does establish an attorney-client relationship between the recipient and Bory Legal.

2. Emails

Please note that email communication is neither safe nor confidential and may be subject to technical or operational interferences. Bory Legal cannot guarantee a timely reaction to instructions received via email and does not assume any liability for the infringement of the attorney-client privilege due to email communication.

3. No liability

Any liability for links to websites of third parties and the content of such third-party websites is also excluded. References or links to other websites are merely suggestions for additional sources of information. We do not have any control over, nor assume any responsibility or liability for, the content of any such external sources. Third-party websites and links are accessed at the user's own risk.

4. Copyright

Unless indicated otherwise, the content available on this website is protected by copyright and/or other intellectual property rights, and we or our licensors, as the case may be, retain all rights in it. The use of any content without our prior express approval is prohibited. Automated retrieval or representation of the content or parts of the content on this website by technical means (such as web crawler or spider programmes, metasearch engines, framing) is also prohibited.
